

Aluminium Windows & Doors

A JELD WEN Company

Ordinary is not an option

Congratulations. You've discovered a product of great beauty and intelligence: Airlite doors and windows. They're not your ordinary doors and windows, as you'll see on the pages of this brochure.

Extraordinary, from the start

Airlite began as a family business over 50 years ago. The same values and craftsmanship that began the company remain today.

The Airlite range is enormous and covers every size and shape you could imagine – and some only your architect could dream up. We're pretty famous for our custom made windows and doors. We definitely love a challenge.

Airlite continues to keep up, and ahead, of the game with the very latest processes and equipment. Matched only, of course, by our service, extraordinary products, technology and service. Just what you'd expect when you're no longer interested in the ordinary.

No ordinary guarantee

We can afford to have a generous guarantee on our products because we know you'll probably never need it. In the unlikely event that you do, Airlite products are covered by a written guarantee against defects arising from faulty workmanship or materials for a period of seven years.

Manufactured to meet or exceed all relevant Australian standards, your Airlite windows and doors carry a performance rating label. This label certifies that Airlite has made your window or door to conform to AS2047 (Windows in Buildings standard), and rates the performance of the window or door in terms of structural strength and water resistance.

Aluminium. Give me two good reasons.

Aluminium can be the perfect choice for windows and doors for two very good reasons. It's strong and it's light. So your doors and windows can be barely there, nice and slim or they can be a stunning feature, big and chunky. Aluminium gives you both.

We use powder coated or anodised finishes on our aluminium so that you'll never have to think about a paintbrush. We have all the usual colours and the unusual ones too.

Our glazing bars are mounted onto the face of the glass as standard, making for a better finish and a better performing window.

Double hung windows

Double hung windows are great because they allow ventilation through the top, bottom or both. Airlite aluminium makes for a much safer, stronger double hung window with interlocking sash locks and a key-alike option. You can't get much safer than that.

Awning windows

Awning windows allow air into your home even when it's raining – ideal for tropical climates and fresh air fanatics. Airlite awning windows are hinged and sealed along the top edge for weatherproofing and feature a sturdy metal winder. Great for year round ventilation. When it rains, our awning windows shine.

Casement windows

Airlite casement windows can be easily adjusted to direct more or less air into your home. Internally fitted flyscreens mean you don't have to move them to open the window. Simple. Smart.

Sliding windows

Shhh. The Airlite aluminium sliding window is whisper quiet because it glides on adjustable nylon rollers. Its matching durable flyscreens are powder coated for a more seamless effect. After all, flyscreens are there to repel bugs, not upstage your windows.

Bi-folding windows

Airlite bi-fold windows love to be pushed aside and that's because they feature state-of-the-art Henderson hardware and hinge systems.

Most bi-fold windows have wide sash frames and large clunky hardware that was designed for doors. But not the aluminium bi-fold window by Airlite. Specially designed sash frames are sleek and styled to look like a window. The high quality Henderson hardware and hinge system is uniquely designed to meet the requirements of a window – smaller and lighter, but just as tough and resilient. An ordinary bi-fold will never look this good.

Bi-folding doors

Got an ordinary room with an adjoining ordinary veranda? Why not make them one extraordinary space with an Airlite aluminium bi-fold door. Bring the outside in by opening your aluminium bi-fold doors to create a wide flow through area.

Or keep them closed, while maintaining an abundance of light. Closed, you'll only have the one operating door to lock. And the Henderson stainless steel hardware system will keep your Airlite bi-fold door working effortlessly for years.

Sliding doors

Ordinary was definitely not on our agenda when we designed our Airlite aluminium sliding door. We were committed to creating a long lasting, weather resistant sliding door that would glide smoothly and quietly for years. We started by developing a full interlocking system between the door panels for increased weather protection and greater security and then we perfected an adjustable nylon roller system for the glide. We have a huge range of sliding door configurations including a three or six door stacking version.

Hinged doors

The hinged patio door is becoming a serious design item. An Airlite aluminium hinged door with windows to match can make a bold statement or it can be quite discreet. We have an Airlite hinged door to suit your bold, unobtrusive or in between requirements.

Custom made windows and doors

The design of homes today is becoming more daring and more demanding. Ordinary window companies just can't keep up. Only a window manufacturer with a custom design service can meet such new and creative requirements. At Airlite, our custom design service is driven by exacting standards. And our quality tradespeople are trained in the art of creating something special. They will design and manufacture aluminium or timber windows and doors to suit all sorts of difficult angles, odd shapes and unique architectural features.

Airlite composite range

What is an ordinary window? Well it definitely isn't the composite window and door range by Airlite. Constructed using cedar for the bits you see inside your home, and using aluminium for the bits you see outside. The Airlite composite range is a very innovative solution to creating your perfect home.

You are free to paint, stain or varnish the inside frame to suit each room. The outside frame comes powder coated from the factory in the colour of your choice and will never need a paint job. The ultimate in flexibility.
